1924 SCORES MOST POINTS IN ANNUAL WINTER CARNIVAL

Botsford Wins 100 Yard Dash by Ski Length

SKI-JUMPING ATTRACTS MANY

Peck Carries Off Honors In Jump

The Senior class won the interclass contests in the carnival held on the lower campus and Chipman Hill on Washington's birthday by taking 39 points. The sophomores were second with 32 points while the Juniors gathered 12 points. The Freshmen entered no contestants except in the baseball game. Perfect weather and an abundance of snow made the conditions ideal for the carnival, which drew a large crowd of interested spectators. The addition of ski-jumping and the participation of the coeds in some of the events were features of the program. A baseball game on snowshoes and skiis between the upper and lower classmen lasted for three innings, the Lowerclassmen winning by the close score of 1-0. Pinder '27 scored the only run of the day, when he made a safe hit and then stole second, third and home successively. No points were awarded for the game.

The ski-jump on the new Chipman Hill jump attracted many spectators from the town as well as the college. Owing to the meagre experience which most of the men have had in jumping, few successful jumps were completed although about fifteen men entered. Peck '24 was the only man who seemed to be consistently able to make a good distance and stay on his feet. He won the contest for form, Lathrop taking second and Carlson third. The longest jump was made by Lathrop when he covered 49 feet. Peck was second, making 43 feet. Carlson again took third when he jumped 40 feet. Papke made over 46 feet on one jump but did not place in the contest for he was unable to maintain his equilibrium after landing.

The races held on the lower campus in the morning were all hotly contested. The closest race was the 100 yard ski dash, won by Botsford '24 with Peck '24 and Carlson '26 second and third only a few feet behind him. Tulley '24 easily won the snowshoe dash, Grow '26 taking second and Hastings '24 third. The snowshoe dash for women showed some fast stepping on the part of the coeds. Miss Belcher '24 came in first, with Miss Baldwin '25 and Miss Gaylor '25 close behind her. The obstacle races showed the women to be as agile as the men at going under ropes and through barrels with snowshoes on. Miss Baldwin '24 won the race for the women, with Miss Gaylor '25 not far behind her. Miss Bennett '24 was third. After a close race Papke '25 won the snowshoe obstacle race with Tulley '24 second. In the ski race of the same kind, Sears '26 won first and Wexler '24 second. Owing to the lack of competition, Robinson '26 was awarded first place in the crosscountry snowshoe race by default while Carlson and Sears took eight points more for '26 when they tied for first in the ski race in the same way.

Freshman Close Home Season With 30-17 Win

The Frosh five closed their home season here last night by winning over the St. Michaels freshmen 30-17. St. Mikes offered little real opposition tho she scored six pretty field goals. The yearlings guarded close but were unable to score freely from the field.

Middlebury took an early lead but seemed about to lose it, when Roberts was put in. This added new life to the men and the half ended 12-3. The frosh, passing in better style in the second half, ran into a safe lead. The visitors rallied late in the half, but were unable to score heavily.

Hasseltine played in his usual fine form. Church proved to be a high scorer with 4 baskets and 3 fouls. Pierce and Johnson for the visitors were the mainstays.

Referee: Papke.

VARSITY TRIMS ST. MICHAELS 20-16

Game Close—Not Marked By Exceptional Team Work

In a closely contested game, the Varsity scored a 20-16 win over the St. Michaels team last night in the Gym. The game was featured by close guarding on the part of both teams, most of the points being scored from baskets outside the 15-ft. zone.

The first half ended with Middlebury on the long end of a 14-9 score. They had gained the lead at the beginning of the game on field goals by Fish and Lambe and were never headed. This game, the Blue quintet's last appearance at home, was not conspicuous for its excellent brand of team work.

Fish played a fine game, scoring three field baskets and holding his opponent, Captain Delaney, reputed to be one of the best shots in the state, to two field baskets. For the up-state team, Quinn with three baskets and three fouls showed best. Rich, altho he had an off night in shooting, managed to lead his team in point-scoring with 8 points.

The score:

Middlebury (20)	St. Michaels (16)
Rich, lf.	rg. McAlpine
Lamb, rf.	lg. Garvin
Fish, c	c Delaney
Knowle, c	rf. Quinn
Hollquist, lg.	rf. Gallagher
Rice, rg.	lf. Wood

Referee: O'Brien.

Blue Basketeers Win From Norwich 42-28

Play One-Sided Game On Slippery Floor On Holiday—Penchion Stars For Losers

In the holiday game played at Northfield, the Middlebury varsity defeated the Norwich University quintet by the one-sided score of 42-28.

The slippery condition of the floor proved a handicap to both teams but especially to the fast forwards of the Blue and White basketeers. In the second half however Perkins' men found themselves and outscored the troopers two to one. In this period the team displayed the best team work of the year. The scoring was more equally divided with "Shorty" Rice showing the way with four field goals. Rich played his usual good game making three baskets in each period. At no time thruout the game did the troopers make any threat to take the lead. Captain Penchion starred for the losers playing an excellent game at guard.

DOCTOR EDWARD D. COLLINS RESIGNS DIRECTORSHIP OF SUMMER SESSION— ACT TO BECOME EFFECTIVE MARCH 1

DR. EDWARD DAY COLLINS

Whose Resignation As Director of the Summer Session Goes Into Effect March 1

Under His Direction Summer Schools Here Recognized As Leaders in Field Of Modern Language Instruction.

BREAD LOAF SCHOOL HIS GREAT WORK

Summer Session of 1923 Bigger Than Whole College In 1909--LaCalle To Be Dean of Romance Language Schools.

The resignation of Dr. Edward D. Collins as Director of the Middlebury College Summer Session was announced to-day. Dr. Collins will continue for a time his connection with the College in the office of Comptroller, but his resignation as Director of the Summer Session will become effective March 1.

Doctor Collins has been intimately connected with the organization and growth of the Summer Session since 1910. Under his direction, the summer branch of the college work has taken unique form and has risen to an importance quite incommensurate with the size of the institution and the numbers of students involved. The Summer Session has won for Middlebury College general recognition as a leader in the field of modern language instruction in the United States and has brought to the French School, in particular, honors and distinctions from abroad.

The continuance of the French School throughout the academic year, with its accompaniment of the Maison Francaise, is perhaps the feature of this work with which the undergraduate body is most familiar, but this is a small part of the total work of the Summer Session. Middlebury's field of influence is as wide as the field of modern language instruction in America. Each summer has seen increasing numbers of teachers—from Maine to California, from Wisconsin to Florida—coming to the little college on the hill for instruction and inspiration, while last year witnessed the successful inauguration of the Middlebury French School in Paris.

Even more audacious than the founding of the foreign language schools, was Dr. Collins's conception and promotion of the School of English, which was established at Bread Loaf Inn in 1920. The establishment of this school involved a wide departure from tradition and a transplantation of this enterprise from the college campus to Bread Loaf Inn, which has come to the College as a part of the bequest of Joseph Battell and which had been lingering in a moribund existence since the death of Mr. Battell.

Disregarding frequent prophecies of failure, Dr. Collins announced and advertised in 1920 the first English school, engaged the staff, and personally laid down the courses of instruction and the four main divisions of the field of English that would be covered in the work of the School. So accurately were the needs of teachers forecast, and so successfully were the new methods employed which Dr. Collins originated, that no fundamental change has been made in the general plan.

HOCKEY TEAM TIES WITH ST. MICHAELS

Result 1-1 At End of Three Periods—Day Ideal

Playing her best game of the season the Middlebury hockey team battled the St. Michael's sextet to a 1-1 tie on Porter Rink as part of the winter carnival program last Friday afternoon. Neither team scored in the first period although the Blue and White puck chasers kept the puck in their opponents 'territory most of the time. In the last two frames each team was able to break through and score one goal each with Leary tallying for Middlebury while Tinning shot the goal for St. Michael's. The game was not carried into extra periods as the visiting team and referee had to take a train immediately after the three regular periods were played. Weather conditions were ideal for the contest and a large crowd witnessed the game.

The summary:

Middlebury	St. Michaels
Twichell r. w	r. w. R. Harvey
Weeks l. w.	l. w. Tinning
Fletcher (Capt.) c.	(Capt.) Papineau
McLaughlin l. d.	l. d. Legault
Leary r. d	r. d. E. Harvey
Finnegan g.	g. Marony

Goals by Leary and Tinning.

Two fifteen minute periods, one ten minute period; referee, Drost.

Glee Club Season To Extend Through Spring Months—Return Concert at Norwich

Manager E. S. Kalin has arranged a program for the College Glee Club that differs from the usual schedule in that several of the concerts will come in the spring instead of being confined to the winter months.

Middlebury has a concert scheduled at Norwich University for some time in the Spring. This is to be given as a return engagement to the appearance of the Norwich musical clubs during Junior Week here last year. There will also be a tour of northern Vermont towns, as well as a concert to be given in Rutland.

Unusual travelling conditions which were encountered by the club last year have been the cause for this new arrangement in the schedule. The exact dates of the different appearances will be announced later but the Glee Club season will probably extend well thru the spring months.

Doctor Collins Resigns

The week brings with it the announcement of the resignation of Doctor Edward Day Collins as Director of the Middlebury Summer Session. Dr. Collins' resignation will become effective March 1.

The "man behind the guns" of the Summer Session since 1910, Dr. Collins has proved himself a master of administration and of the handling of financial affairs. Beside the distinctive work which he has done in the development of the Summer Schools, Dr. Collins has ably served the College as Professor of Pedagogy from 1909 to 1921, as Acting-President of the College for two short periods during that time, as Provost in 1919, and as Comptroller for the past year. But perhaps his outstanding contribution to the building up of Middlebury is that of the Bread Loaf School of English, which he conceived, planned in detail, and in the face of many obstacles has brought to its present high state of distinction. This unique school, located in an old inn in the heart of the Green Mountains, is known where the name of Middlebury College would never otherwise have been heard. The famous men and women of letters which it has gathered together and the conspicuous work it has done in the field of the English language and literature, in the short space of four years, has caused the Bread Loaf School to be known and recognized in every part of the United States. Its existence and its present renown the English School owes to the vision and administrative skill of its founder and director, Dr. Collins. Needless to say, his resignation leaves a gap which will be exceedingly difficult to fill.

A Freer Cut System

A little over a year ago a change in the present cut system which would base the allowance of cuts on the student's grades was proposed to the faculty by the Undergraduate Association. The faculty placed the recommendation in the hands of a Committee, where it apparently lies buried. Certain members of the faculty, including President Moody, are known to favor a change in the cut system, and at the time the undergraduate recommendation was drafted it was very apparent that the students were heartily in favor of such a change.

The plan submitted proposed that all students maintaining an average grade in all their courses of 87½ per cent. or over be allowed unlimited cuts, that all who keep their general average above 80 per cent. be allowed 5 cuts in each course, and that all falling below 80 per cent. be restricted to 3 cuts per semester per course as at present. In principle the plan is good, but it omits any reference to class. The sense of responsibility which causes a man to attend class regularly from choice we believe is more generally present in the two upper classes than among Sophomores and Freshmen. The above plan, then, might well be applied to Juniors and Seniors, partially applied to Sophomores by eliminating the unlimited cut provision, and restricted from Freshmen, for whom the present 3-cut rule for all is perhaps best.

Such a plan places a certain premium—an especially valuable one during football season—on scholarship. It allows a man liberty just to the extent that he shows himselft able to make good use of liberty, and permits him in his upperclass years to follow up his studies more independently and more intensively. It also imposes upon him a great responsibility, but one which he certainly ought to measure up to. Incidentally it places considerable responsibility—and quite legitimate responsibility—on the instructor. We would hear the matter discussed.

Prof Williams: Who was the greatest inventor?
Connie: He was an Irishman named Pat Pending.

"Who says the day of the horse has passed"? muttered the Latin Student as he galloped swiftly through a formidable passage of Cicero.

Are you keeping step? What kind of step? Goose-step?

THUS ENDETH THE LESSON

Farce (very) in one act.

Scene: Mead Memorial Chapel.
Time: Sunday afternoon, 5 to 6 o'clock.

Hi Frank (as organ begins) — What d'ye say, Doc. on half o' that Sunday Advertiser? Come, Doc. be a sport. I left my copy at home. This bird looks like he is going to be long-winded. Gotta have something to read.

Doc. Wheeler (studying the comic valentines of the B. S. A. — Aw, lay off there. How d'ye get that way? I never bring over any good reading but you want it. Whattahell d'ye take me for?

Gus Mullen (from the other side) — Come on Doc, give us a slant at your art gallery. I meant to bring over the Saxonian but I forgot it. Want something snappy to keep me awake.

Cal Farnsworth, Freddy Frederickson and others (reaching for their share of the sheet) — Don't be small, Doc. Divide up. We like good literature, too.

Doc (disgustedly) — Here take it, damn you. (throws paper to Cal). Gus, you big bum, don't say I'm not your friend. (Produces copy of Snappy Stories and tosses it to Gus.) This is all I've got left, Hi, but it isn't so bad in spots. (He slips Hi La Vie Parisienne). The rest of you guys'll have to read the hymn book. 'Elluv-a-life, I call it. (And he settles himself against a heap of coats and snoozes peacefully.)

Winter Sports

Friday's winter sports program was not exactly a huge demonstration of enthusiasm in winter sports by a college located in a region well-suited to that kind of sport. There were even fewer contestants in the various events than there were on the similar occasion last year. The freshman class was particularly conspicuous by its absence in all the events except the baseball game. The ski jumping, being an innovation, aroused considerable interest, but comparatively few were willing to risk their necks by taking part in it. The Outing Club enthusiasts need not be discouraged, however, since on the whole the number who enter into the sport on snow and ice is appreciably larger than it was a few years ago. One of the best things about winter sports in general here is that there are so few who excel that no one need hesitate to try his skill. It should be noticed that hockey is coming forward and is approaching its rightful position. Manager Fletcher is to be congratulated on the schedule which he has arranged and is carrying out this year.

FRIEDMAN EXHIBITS GREAT TECHNIQUE

But His Playing Contains Little "Heart Quality" Says Writer

(By D. K. U.)

"We know the truth not only by the reason but also by the heart."
—Pascal.

Middlebury witnessed a unique concert Wednesday night when Ignaz Friedman, famed Polish pianist, gave an exhibition of unexcelled technique and stupendous power. Never has there been a pianist with such sheer muscular ability to force overwhelming notes from the piano. "His strength is as the strength of ten," but to what purpose? Music is and must be more than technique, more than mere mastery of form or it is not art but an empty shell that contains nothing of value for the ever-seeking, listening human heart. There was none of this vital heart quality in Friedman. He did not interpret the messages that lay behind those masterpieces of art. Chopin was little more than a finger exercise, and the man himself was completely withdrawn from his work. There can be no great art without personality behind it. Friedman, for all his perfection of tone and amazing versatility, was unable to arrouse the enthusiasm of the audience, for it is only man speaking to man in all high sincerity that wins genuine appreciation.

The concert opened with a Mozart Rondo, a dainty melodious, thoroughly Mozartian little piece. Friedman, contrary to our expectations, played the Rondo with a delicacy and clarity of

Professor Swett Tells of Experiences of Young Jap Who Is a Middlebury Graduate

Senichi Fujimura '17 sailed from San Francisco on January 19th for Tokyo, Japan. He returns tohis native land to assist in rebuilding the area recently destroyed by earthquake.

Previous to 1914 he left Japan with practically no funds to gain an education. He crossed Siberia and was studying in Germany at the outbreak of the world war. He immediately left for America and was soon a student at Middlebury College.After graduation here he worked for a year at the Patch Manufacturing Co., in Rutland. Here he joined the Baptist Church. In the fall of 1918 he entered the Massachusetts Institute of Technology graduating in 1920 with an excellent record in his studies.

After two years with subsidiaries of Swift & Co. near Boston, he went to East Pittsburgh, Pa. in the employ of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co. There he worked in various departments and attended the school conducted for the employees. On resigning recently, he left on an extended trip in the United States in order to visit a number of the larger industrial plants.

In a farewell letter he writes, "America has taught me many valuable lessons and her goodwill and sympathy toward my nation I am carrying with me, I am always ready to greet your people with my fullest affection for in the Stars and Stripes the principles are so beautiful and the achievements so wonderful."

I offier this history of Fujimura's life as a record of grit, determination and the overcoming of difficulties which it would be hard to excel. He made friends everywhere. I doubt if this college has a more loyal alumnus. It need hardly be said that he would welcome a letter from those of our graduates who knew him. His address is Senichi Fujimura, 1974 Nishi-Sugamo-Machi Tokyo, Japan.

REV. FRAZIER GIVES SERMON ON COURAGE

Must Knock Down Forbidding Signs, Says He, And Enter Where Mind Leads

"The world needs courage," said Rev. William F. Frazier, secretary of the Vermont Association of Congregational churches, speaking at vespers Sunday, but there are many things that are confused with courage—the spirit of the man who does right compelled by social obligation; the feeling of those who proceed in danger with calmness that comes from skill and technique in their profession; the bravado of those who hardly know that they are in danger.

Emerson said that courage is the cutting edge of life. Life is a roadway filled with signs closing up various roads marked "keep out," and there is no hope in life for a man unless he knocks down the signs and goes in where his own mind and conscience lead him. There are those who sit and wait for others to go and break the paths, but there is nothing in life for that sort of man."

Rev. Frazier concluded by telling how fully Jesus lived a life of courage, and explained how that has been the heritage and characteristic of the Christian people and religion through the centuries, and has been the influence that has called men and women far afield to the aid of the needy in times of disaster. "In the deep needs of industry, and the problems of the country is the need for Christian men and women who will go forth and speak to the hearts of men with the words of the Master in their ears. 'You must live for me all the days of your life.' "

Track Training Begins In Earnest This Week

Intensive track practice began at the Gym this week. The first call for candidates was issued by Coach Brown immediately after the Christmas holidays, when 50 men reported. Practice has been held three days a week.

The entire squad will now continue workouts in the Gym on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. Weather permitting, the distance men will make out-of-door trips on alternate days. Nearly a dozen newcomers are among the squad, and the outlook seems promising for another successful year of track.

He Reached the Top

THE Vice-President of a great life insurance company who began his career as an agent has this to say to seniors who are about to graduate from college:

"If you love work and desire to pursue an honorable, useful and lucrative mission in life this is the business for you to take up. Life insurance salesmanship offers a fine field for the energies of the splendid young men in our colleges.

"That this is true is demonstrated by those college men who have taken up life insurance for they have shown that the college man is fit for this kind of a job and that the job also is fit for the college man.

"The work of the life insurance salesman is distinguished by independence and opportunity for directing his own. It gives all possible opportunity for individual initiative and a chance to make an ample income at an age when most fellows are struggling on a wage pittance."

That is the story of one who began at the bottom and reached the top without the help of a college education. The advantages are with you who graduate from college. Before deciding your career make inquiries of the "Agency Department."

Dr. Collins Resigns As Director of Summer Session

The new school quickly filled the capacity of the Inn, and arrested not only the attention of teachers, but of many of the most thoughtful producers and critics of literature in the country. The resources of the College did not permit the Bread Loaf School to buy the country's best talent, but the very nature of the educational experiment conducted there enlisted it. Dorothy Canfield Fisher ,Willa Cather, Katharine Lee Bates, Robert Frost, and others came to the Bread Loaf School of English because it was trying to do something new and distinctive which was not then even being tried elsewhere. Instead of frightening away the former guests of the Inn, the work of the English School proved an added attraction. The revenue of the Inn rose from $9,755.79 in 1918 to $26,794.01 in 1923, in which year the English School came within $27.21 of paying all its own expenses, including the comparatively high charge of boarding its students at the Inn.

The financial skill with which the Summer Session problems have been worked out has been no less noteworthy than the originality of the academic organization at Middlebury. It has been assumed that if Middlebury was to give the best to its students, it must secure the best in its summer session faculty. For the Modern Language Schools teachers have been brought from France and Spain, as well as from widely separated institutions in the United States. The faculty, the student body, the expenses, and the receipts of the Summer Session in 1923 exceeded these items for the entire college of a decade and a half ago. The last report of the Director exhibits total receipts aggregating $73,071.22, of which $28,225 were for registration and tuition fees; $27,637 were dining hall receipts; and $13,548.50 rental receipts, not inclusive of the business of Bread Loaf Inn, which was separately reported.

This business involves much advertising, publishing of circulars and announcements of the various schools, correspondence with prospective students, assignment of rooms, besides the work of actual enrollment, accounting and reports, all of which have been so quietly and efficiently handled in one office by the Director and a single secretary that few in the college realize the scope and importance of the work. Whatever growth and new honors the future may bring to Middlebury through its special schools of the Summer Session, the College has abundant cause to be grateful to Doctor Collins, whose patient constructive skill has given to his far seeing vision its present reality.

No one has as yet been appointed to succeed Doctor Collins as Director. President Paul D. Moody has announced that Prof. J. Moreno Lacalle will serve this summer as Dean of the Romance Language Schools. Professor Wilfred E. Davison will continue as Dean of the School of English and Miss Minnie Hayden as Dean of the Music School.

tone that would have been more effective had it not been so cold. A Hummel-Friedman Rondo, the second number, displayed the strength which has won Friedman his reputation. In the Chaconne, Bach-Busoni, we were overwhelmed by his force, which gathered like a thunder cloud to burst into an indistinguishable medley of sound. Yet never once did we feel that Friedman lost control of his instrument, he was too firmly the rider on the horse, and this quality of deliberateness was terrifying; almost an open defiance of art.

The Chopin numbers were disappointing. The Opus 62 Nocturne bordered on sentimentality in its affected rendition. No true artist will seek to gain the favor of his audience by cheap affectations. The first Valse, exceedingly difficult, was technically perfect and well interpreted. The second Valse, unconventional in treatment, was almost ruined by the mad speed with which it was played, and the grace notes like little bells, wherein lies the beauty of the piece, were slipd over with a minimum share of attention which detracted from the effect. The technique in the Etudes was perfect and the left hand work was as excellent as is humanly possible. The beautiful melody in the Polonaise was obscured by the heavy chords and finally degenerated into a crash bang symphony of noise.

The delicate Pastorale by Dohnanyi and the Minuett by Suk were both faultless in technique but here again utterly lacking in interpretation. Friedman lacks the tenderness of Bauer, the deep but evercontrolled emotion that speaks through form which if not technically perfect, nevertheless carries a thrill to the listener.

The Barcarolle composed by Friedman himself, was in a slightly different vein. His glittering scales, his trumpet-like chords, hs brilliant arpeggioes were all present and something more that came dangerously near giving us the longed-for glimpse of the man himself. Life of Artists, a Strauss-Godowski number was modern to the core and as inexplicable as a cubist painting or an Elinor Wylie poem. It was a fantasy of sound that swirled beneath those hammer-like fiingers in eddies of frenzied thunder.

At the conclusion Friedman was physicially exhausted. He returned for three encores, one of his own compositions, Listz's Campinella and Chopin's C SharpMinor Etude. In his weariness he dropped all posings and affectations and played simply and sincerely the three exquisite piece. The rift widened moment by moment until finally we saw what we had not seen before, Friedman the artist. The personality of the man, tender, warm, beauty-loving was at last evident and in those few final moments we were privileged to listen to rare music. "With all thy getting get understanding." What a pity that it lay concealed until the encores.

"Inbad, The Tailor" Postponed to March 20

Owing to a conflict with another college function, the musical comedy, "Inbad, The Tailor" has been postponed until Thursday, March 20.

In an interview granted a Campus reporter this morning, the Ace of Clubs who is in charge of the production of the comedy, said, "Everything and everyone is working nicely. The final cast will be published in the next issue of the Campus, and will contain some names well known to Middlebury theatergoers as well as some which hitherto have been undiscovered. In addition to the play itself, we have some specialty acts which will be both a surprise and a delight to the audience. We have been fortunate in securing some well-known and capable persons to assist in the production. The chorus itself is made up mainly of those girls who captivated the patrons of the last Y. W. bazaar, and is again being coached by William Purdy who has just returned from a trip to New York where he secured a great deal of new material. Purdy is being assisted by Robert Radcliffe, who will also take the leading part in the production. Mr. Radcliffe is a recent graduate of Lafayette, and while attending that institution he produced a number of successful musical comedies. Kenneth Anderson, with whom Paul Ward and Richard Rapport collaborated in writing the play, has proven his capabilities in dramatic club work. The scenery design for the third act has been given to a Swedish artist who is fast becoming a leader in that technique.

"Yes,'" said the Ace as he handed the reporter a five center, "Middlebury's first musical comedy will be a sensation in every way."

A Class Distinction

The Hinge-Cap is the insignia of Williams Shaving Cream and of Williams only. You'll notice three things about Williams every time you shave. 1. Williams lather is heavier and holds the moisture in against the beard. Quicker and more thorough softening takes place. 2. Williams lather lubricates your skin — your razor actually seems to "glide" the hairs off. 3. Williams lather leaves the skin in marvelously fine condition. No matter how frequently you shave, your face stays cool, smooth and comfortable.

You'll enjoy every shave with Williams. It is a pure, natural-white cream without any artificial coloring whatsoever.

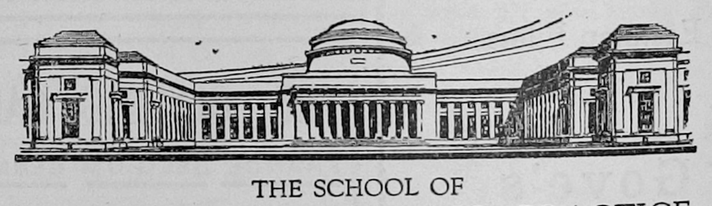
The Williams Hinge-Cap is "on even when it's off." You can't lose it, and the tube hangs up!



THE SCHOOL OF
CHEMICAL ENGINEERING PRACTICE
OF THE MASSACHUSETTS INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

A GRADUATE SCHOOL offering a course of study leading to the degree of Master of Science, with field stations in the plants of six different companies. These companies produce steel, pulp, paper, caustic soda, chlorine, heavy acids and salts, sugar, gas, ammonia, benzol, etc.

The more important unit operations of chemical engineering are studied systematically by means of tests and experimental work on full scale plant apparatus.

The work is wholly educational and independent of control by the plant managements. The attention of the student is directed exclusively to the study of Chemical Engineering.

The total number admitted to the school is limited and the students, studying and experimenting in small groups, receive individual instruction from resident professors. For entrance requirements and details address R. T. Haslam, Director, School of Chemical Engineering Practice.
